
OUT OF THE FLYING PLANE INTO THE FIRE

Leg pockets packed with extra gear, a team of smoke jumpers run toward a waiting plane for patrol duty over forests.

In some remote area of our nation's forests, perhaps at this very moment, two parachutists drift down from a small plane orbiting overhead into a blazing inferno. They're smoke jumpers, out to extinguish the blaze before it spreads.

Parachuting fire fighters into remote forest areas began experimentally in 1939. The first actual fire jump was made in 1940. Since then, the men of this unique service have saved countless acres of our nation's timber from fire.

There are roughly 390 smoke jumpers with the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Forest Service, plus a number of others with the Park Service and Bureau of Land Management, stationed near our forests.

Each jumper averages 8 to 10 actual fire jumps per season—usually July through September.

Most fires are caused by lightning. During storms, jumpers suit up and patrol their areas, airborne and ready to leap to a blaze moments after it has started.

Fire jumps are usually made by two-man teams. Tools, a two-day supply of rations and paper sleeping bags are parachuted in with them. On the ground the men put out the fire, then retrieve their parachutes, pack their gear and hike out to civilization.

Many of today's smoke jumpers are college students who do it as a summer job. Applicants must be between 18 and 28 to qualify.

Rookies take two weeks of physical training before making seven qualifying jumps. Then they're assigned to a team similar to this one at a base near Winthrop, Washington.

Life In Arkansas

By ALVIN SHAY
Associated Press Writer

Thomas M. Gillespie, editor and publisher of the Atkins Chronicle, joined other merchants in contributing prizes for a recent Jaycee-sponsored event in his town.

Gillespie's donation was a pair of subscriptions to his newspaper. He writes thus about his participation in the Jaycee shindig:

"We won, drew a number to match one of the numbered prizes. It was a subscription to Atkins' leading paper. Two dollars and a quarter later we won again. We drew, and again we won a subscription to the same fine paper."

Editor-publisher Gillespie concluded it was a good thing he wasn't "shooting craps out there."

What's a Fabridam?

Before you worry about using it in polite circles, it's Firestone's trademark name for giant rubber coated tubes which are used as water dams.

Firestone's plant at Magnolia plans to build one 2,100 feet long for use on the Susquehanna River in Pennsylvania. The company says it will be the world's largest.

A Jonesboro couple can claim they gave Western Union almost a century of service.

Mrs. C. L. Kinard has retired after 43 years with Western Union, all of it in Jonesboro. Her husband, longtime manager of the Jonesboro Western Union Office, was with the company 46 years before he retired in 1959.

That's a total of 89 years.

One sometimes wonders what kind of picture the rest of the world has oarkansans.

While waiting for Old Faithful's performance in Yellowstone, a Canadian woman in her 50s started talking to a young Arkansan.

He told her he was from Arkansas, and she said she was from Ontario.

"That's not far from Detroit," she said, "have you ever heard of it."

Another Arkansasn who was vacationing in New England reports that a service station man tried to get him to apply for a credit card.

The Arkansan had never run across that particular brand of gasoline, so he asked the station operator if the company had stations only in the New England area.

"Oh no, we operate out west — as far as Pennsylvania."

No Prizes But Thankful for Call

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Mary Cook, 16, didn't win the $500 cash on an Oklahoma City radio station's giveaway contest Wednesday night, but she figures she hit the jackpot, anyway.

The station's telephone call may have saved her life.

Mary was sleeping and her parents were shopping when Radio Station WKY called to say her number had been picked at random for a chance at a prize.

Waking up to answer the phone, she discovered the kitchen was on fire.

"I'm sorry, sir, but my house is on fire," she told the station announcer, and hung up to telephone the fire department. Firemen extinguished the blaze quickly.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — You wonder just how far they (you know who "they" are) will be allowed to go.

"Washington Is for the Birds" (Reprise) is the latest let's - laugh - at - President - Johnson - and - all - the - Birds album. It can best be described as clever bad taste.

What makes the trend alarming is the use of the actual voices of the people involved, altered by sneaky editing into lines they never meant to say, and meanings they never intended.

Where Vaughn Meader's "First Family" was a funny album in which actors were billed as impersonators of the Kennedy clan, "Washington Is for the Birds" and an earlier album, "Welcome to the LBJ Ranch," use the voices of the President, his family, senators, the vice president, and others, apparently, who have ever spoken a political word recorded by sound equipment.

Thus, in this recording, in the "Lynda and Luci Lullaby," we have Mrs. Johnson referring to them as "the great monument to one of our great presidents and in a way the monument to all mankind." These were words she spoke during a television tour of Washington, D.C.

In a song about wedding presents given to Pat and Luci, we hear Hubert Humphrey say he is giving "the Asian people and their leaders" and Sen. Dirksen say "more than 120 billion dollars of your money."

Funny? Yes. But, isn't it time record companies stopped going for obvious laughs and a fast buck and began respecting the nation's leaders? Satire has its place, but there are limits.

BEST BUYS

Best Instrumental Albums —Lalo Schrifrin has composed some amusing music for the album with the longest title yet: "The Dissection and Reconstruction of Music From the Past as Performed by the Inmates of Lalo Schrifrin's Demented Ensemble as a Tribute to the Memory of the Marquis de Sade" (Verve). Andre Kostelanetz conducts "Today's Golden Hits" in a listenable album (Columbia).

Best Classical Albums— Montserrat Caballe is very much in her element singing "Songs of Enrique Granados" (RCA Victor). Andre Previn adds further proof to the belief that he is a fine classical conductor with a sensuous treatment given Rachmaninoff's Symphony No. 2 (RCA Victor). He conducts the London Symphony Orchestra. Mahler's Symphony No. 9 is given a fine reading by Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic (Columbia). Klemperer conducts Beethoven's "Missa Solemnis" (Angel).

Best Vocal Albums — Van McCoy's first album, "Nighttime Is Lonely Time" (Columbia), introduces a young man who truly can wear the mantle of Nat King Cole. A very good singer. The Beatles keep growing as "Revolver" (Capitol) proves; listen to the baroque background in "Eleanor Rigby" and the 12-tone Far Eastern influence in "Love You To" and "Tomorrow Never Knows." Sinatra fans will enjoy "Sinatra at the Sands" (Reprise), a two-record set with 18 Sinatra songs and some Count Basie instrumentals. Lainie Kazan (MGM) is a singer in the Streisand mold who proves her power in Gershwin's beautiful "I Loves You, Porgy." "The Fantastic Las Vegas" (Columbia) make nice sounds and have delightfully accented diction.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help US!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush-off.

Send your teenage questions to Helen Help US!, this newspaper.

SHOULD SHE KEEP THE HOME FIRES BURNING?

Dear Helen: I'm a 17-year-old girl who, maybe like people say, is too young to know about love. My boyfriend left for Viet Nam last month, and I told him I would wait for him.

My friends tell me I'm foolish to pledge my life to him and miss out on the fun of my senior year. But I feel I will only be giving up a little fun while he may be giving up his life. If he is old enough to fight for his country, I think I'm old enough to say I will wait for him.

Even if we don't get married when he returns home, I know I have given him something to look forward to, and that my letters, written every day, filled a little of his lonely hours.

I know many other girls are in this same situation. Do you think we're foolish to stay — Waiting?

Dear Waiting: A girl is never foolish to wait for a fellow worth waiting for.

And another thing: Does it irritate you as much as it does me to hear the old refrain, "If you don't date, you'll miss out on all the fun. . ." as if dating is the ONLY route to "Fun" for a girl? Manlessness doesn't turn you into a recluse!

I predict you'll have a full and happy senior year — any may your boy friend be home in time for the Senior Prom! — H.

Dear Helen: This boy dated me for a month, and called me almost every night. Then he stopped. I haven't seen him for three months. I've tried everything to let him know I still like him and he just can't get it through his thick skull. Why are boys so dumb - headed? — Fed Up

Dear F. U.: That "dumbhead" has probably been turned by another girl. . .maybe he swore off dates because they are too expensive. You may never know exactly why he disappeared, and don't waste time worrying about lost causes.

My best advice to the dumped is still, "Shrug, smile and circulate. — H.

EVERYBODY'S OUT FOR THE YAK

Dear Helen: Everybody's a comedian around our house.

At dinner last night, while my new boyfriend was there, my Dad and Mom started going on about how kids use the phone all the time.

Dad said, "For three hours today I tried to phone home to tell you about a death in the family . . ." Of course I asked, quick, "Who?" and Dad said, "Yours — if you don't get off that blank-blank horn!"

Everybody laughed but my boy friend. He hasn't called all day! Should I call him and tell him my Dad's a hard kidder? — Not Dead

Dear N.D.: Give the phone a rest. Your boy friend probably knows your Dad is only half-kidding. — H.

Dear Helen: You say a big nose isn't as noticeable to "Nosy's" friends as it is to her. You are right there, but I disagree that a miracle won't happen if she has it changed.

I had a nose bob in April when I was almost 16. Sure, people couldn't even tell, but the ones that mattered to me most — new acquaintances — saw me as an attractive girl.

Inside was the biggest miracle. I became more poised and much more outgoing. My social life became better, simply because I stopped being aware of my defect. When a girl doesn't have to worry about whether or not she looks well, she becomes a more compatible persons and her inner radiance shines through.

No, I'm not spoiled, and we're not rich. But I have a new life because I'm — No Longer Nosy

Dear Helen: I'm tired of hearing complaints about big noses. I have one, but I've learned what to do about it. Not a nose job, but a good job on the rest of myself. So I say to the "Nosy's" of this world:

Pay sepcial attention to your hair, make-up, figure, clothes, etc. If you do, you'll realize how little your nose contributes to your looks.

Also remember that looks are not everything: work on that personality of yours! — Content

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen Help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of Hope Star.

Syrian Emulates China's Guards

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Emulating Communist China's Red Guards, Syrian labor unions have launched a purge of "reactionary elements" from the Syrian government.

Syria's Socialist government announced Tuesday it had crushed a plot to take over the government by former leaders of the ruling Baath party. It said it would purge all reactionary elements from the administration.

Al Thawra, the Syrian government paper, reported that the executive council of the general federation of Syrian labor unions had empowered itself to carry on the purge.

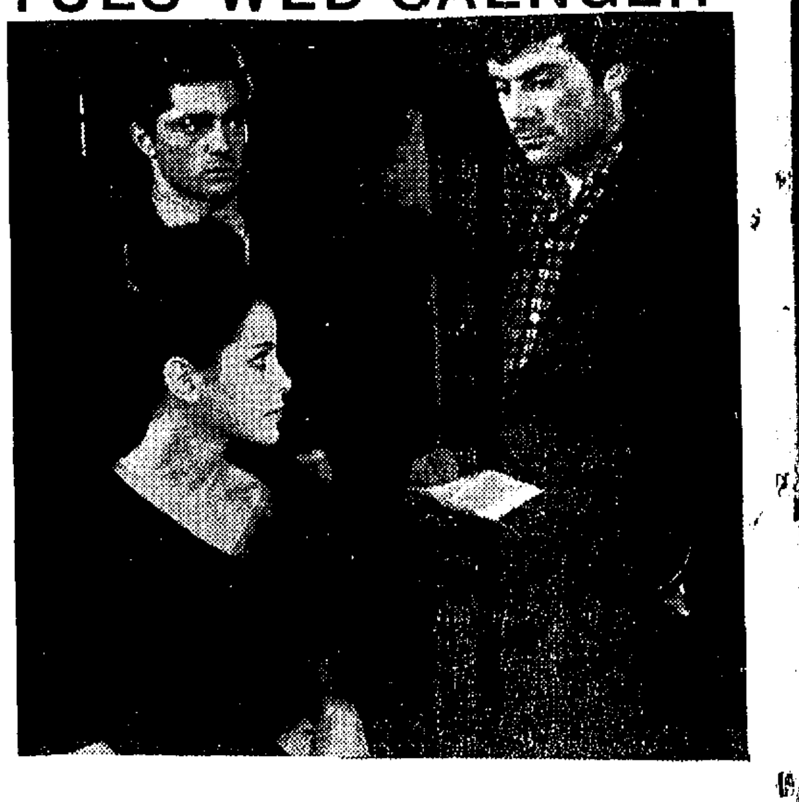
Sun.-Mon. at Saenger

Suzanne Pleshette and Steve McQueen share the love interest in Joseph E. Levine's epic western "Nevada Smith."

TUES-WED SAENGER



—Melina (Louise Sorel) learns from Moise (Oliver Reed, right) and Phil (Joanthan Burn) that her fiancee has arrived in London to search for her. A scene from "The Party's Over," new Allied Artists dramatic thriller

God's Word Says Come

Come let us go into the House of the Lord

an Optimistic View

Hurray for youth!...the juveniles of our community. Let us, during national youth week, honor the 95% of our young people who are law-abiding citizens and will be the dependable community men and women of tomorrow. God help the small minority (only 5%) referred to as delinquents. They are the ill-advised, law-breaking thugs who glory in character assassination and destruction of public property.

Optimist Clubs International are leading in the crusade to give the good youngsters of our world their rightful place in the sun. May this huge army of juveniles not forget that the church on the corner will aid greatly in helping them keep their feet on the right road.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Have a Beautiful Smile, But Expense Is Drawback

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Dr. Lawrence: I'm a girl of 17 and could be fairly attractive if it weren't for my front teeth. I never got my two lateral teeth and the eyeteeth came in where the laterals should be, right beside my front teeth. They look like fangs. What can be done about it and how much would it cost? I've been saving my money and want to know if I have nearly enough.

This anomaly can certainly be corrected, and in a routine manner. In this day and age of modern dentistry none need suffer from bad-looking teeth.

Ideally, the eyeteeth should be moved back to their original position in the jaw. This can be done with orthodontic appliances. The spaces thus created would leave room enough to replace the missing laterals. This should be done by means of fixed bridges that are attached to eyeteeth alone, or to both eyeteeth and central incisors. The choice is dependent on conditions that exist and the evaluation and ability of the dentist.

Alas, it is expensive. It's hard to say how much since it differs in all parts of the country, and from dentist to dentist. But it's not expensive for the type of work required. It calls for many hours of detail and a delicate skill. And there is a continuing responsibility. A dentist's professional career is only as secure as the last bridge he has completed.

Ask your dentist. Most of them are very considerate of their regular patient's ability to pay. He might suggest an alternative, less expensive, which may suit your case almost as well.

In England, where most dentistry is paid for by the government, two important cases relating to teeth were recently settled in the following manner:

CASE 1 An old lady whose teeth were stolen from her bedside during the night by a rat, will have them replaced free of charge.

CASE 2 A man who lost his teeth while being chased and arrested by police, and subsequently jailed, will have to pay for his new set.

Please send your questions about dental health to Dr. Lawrence in care of this paper. While he cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

WINNER AND LOSER in Red China's leadership reshuffle are Defense Minister Lin Piao, left, now believed second only to Mao Tse-tung, and President Liu Shaochi, right, doctrinaire Marxist apparently ousted as Mao's heir-apparent in favor of Lin. Liu is regarded as rigid and uncompromising in his literal interpretation of Communist theory and is believed to have been the moving spirit behind Peking's disastrous Great Leap Forward of some years back.

Sometimes it turns out that a very bad suit break is a blessing in disguise.

South was worried about the correct way to play his heart game. Should trumps break 2-2 he would have no trouble making an overtrick. He could simply pull trumps and eventually concede one spade and one club. With a 3-1 break things wouldn't be as nice. If South played out his ace and king, an opponent might be mean enough to lead the third trump and spoil South's plan to ruff both a club and spade in dummy. On the other hand, if he only played out one trump he might lose two overruffs to divided trumps.

South let West hold the first spade. He did not really fear that East would ruff a spade continuation. In fact, he hoped East would, since that would let South use his ace of spades to get a club discard.

West continued spades. South took his ace and played out the ace of trumps. West showed out and at first glance South appeared doomed to defeat. He had lost a spade and seemed destined to lose two trumps and a club. The only way to make the hand would be to cause his club loser to disappear into thin air.

South was able to do just that. He needed luck in spades, clubs and diamonds to compensate for the bad luck in trumps, but he got it.

He ruffed a spade in dummy, played ace of diamonds, ruffed a diamond, entered dummy with the king of clubs, ruffed another diamond, entered dummy with the ace of clubs, ruffed his last diamond, cashed his king of trumps and conceded the last two tricks to East's high trumps.

Bosox Knocks Off Yankees for Runnels

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Boston Red Sox, down so long that ninth place was beginning to look like up, welcomed their new manager by returning to the cellar.

Wednesday, the Red Sox had climbed out of the cellar, wherein they had dwelled for much of the season. Friday, with Billy Herman out as manager and Pete Runnels in, they returned to the depths, succumbing 2-1 to the New York Yankees who climbed out of Boston owner Tom Yawkey, in explaining the late-season firing of Herman, said, "I think Billy did the best job he could. However, I think a change was in order. It was that simple."

Runnels, twice the American League batting champion, is strictly the interim manager and not in the running for the job next year, Sox offials emphasized. The prime candidate for the post appears to be Dick Williams, former utility infielder and now manager of Boston's International League farm club in Toronto. Another possibility is Ted Williams, now a vice president of the club.

The Yankees combined five-hit pitching by Fred Talbot and Stan Bahnsen, just up from Toledo of the International League, and broke a five-game losing streak.

In other games in the American League, Minnesota beat Baltimore 6-1, Kansas City took Detroit 2-1 in 10 innings, Chicago edged Washington 1-0 in 10 innings and Cleveland beat California 8-7 in 10 innings.

In the National League, Pittsburgh edged St. Louis 3-2 in 12 innings, Los Angeles crushed Houston 7-0, Chicago blanked San Francisco 6-0, Philadelphia took Cincinnati 7-6 and Atlanta bounced New York 8-3.

Jim Kaat became the winningest pitcher in the majors and Tony Oliva surged ahead of Baltimore's Frank Robinson in the batting race in the Minnesota victory. Now 23-9, Kaat allowed the first-place Orioles just eight hits, and Oliva went three-for-four, raising his average to .315, two points above Robinson who had one hit in

Holtzman Is High on List of Durocher

School is still out for Ken Holtzman, but he heads the dean's list at Durocher Tech.

Holtzman, 20-year-old student prince of Leo Durocher's Chicago pitching staff, picked up another summer credit Friday night by blanking San Francisco for 7 2-3 innings as the last-place Cubs ambushed Juan Marichal and the Giants 6-0.

It was the ninth victory — high among Cub pitchers — for the rookie lefthander, who began the season as a full-time scholar and will return to the University of Illinois at Chicago later this month to begin his

Until mid-June Holtzman, a $65,000 bonus baby, was a once-a-week pitcher while concentrating on his studies. He beat Los Angeles 2-0 for his first decision in the majors but had won only three games when the school year ended. He's made the most of his summer vacation, however, winning four of his last five decisions for an overall mark of 9-13.

"I used to have him only on weekends — Friday, Saturday and Sunday," said Manager Durocher. "I'm happy to have him any time. He's quite something. He's a fine looking young lefthander who really brings the Holtzman stopped the Giants on two hits for seven innings while nursing a 1-0 lead. The Cubs gave him a two-run cushion in the eighth, but he needed relief help with two out in the bottom of the inning when the Giants loaded the bases on a single and two walks.

Bill Hands, an ex-Giant, came out of the bullpen, struck out Jim Ray Hart to end the eighth-inning threat and completed the four-hitter, pinning the loss on Marichal, now 21-6.

The Giants' loss dropped them into third place in the tight National League race, two percentage points behind the Dodgers and 1½ games behind league-leading Pittsburgh. The Dodgers blanked Houston 7-0 on Claude Osteen's three-hitter and the Pirates edged St. Louis 3-2 on Bill Mazeroski's bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the 12th inning.

Bobcats in Tie With Curly Wolves

By Larry Don Wright
Hope Star Sportswriter

A crucial penalty with only 11 seconds to play nullified Hope's 28-yard go-ahead touchdown pass and left the final score deadlocked at 6-6, after four full quarteconds to play nullified Hope's 28-yard go-ahead touchdown pass and left the final score deadlocked at 6-6, after four full quarters of defensive tug-of-war between the Bobcats and the Prescott Curly Wolves last night at Prescott.

Prescott received the opening kickoff but was unable to reach midfield and was forced to punt A quick series of downs left the Hope boys in the same position having crossed the 50-yard line to the home team's 46.

Fullback Freddie Easterling's punt rolled dead at the 13 and the Wolves were in a hole deep in their own territory.

Unable to get things going the Prescott boys again resorted to its kicking game, punting it out from their own 16.

The punt carried to the Hope 48 from whee Bobcat halfback James Bradley returned to the 38, of Prescott.

Working on a first down from there the Cats moved it in for the tally. A quarterback bootleg around the right end by Andrews for 14 and two 9-yard gainers by Parris and wingback Danny Turner brought the ball in close for thevisitors.

Parris carried the final yard off right tackle for the Cats only points of the night.

The penalty came as a result of the Bobcats having an ineligible receiver down field on the all-important desperation play . The pass itself was a throwback pattern with QB Buzz Andrews connecting to tailback Stan Parris who caught it on the run as he crossed the goal line.

It was several second before the pandemonium, touched off by the play, subsided and Hope fans realized that the score was being recalled.

All scoring was done in the second quarter. The Cats got on the board first early in the period by way of a 38 yard unsustained drive which was capped by Parris scoring on a one-yard plunge off tackle.

But the Curly Wolves came through in the last two minutes of the first half, marching 25 yards after recovering a Bobcat fumble on a punting situation.

Both teams attempted to kick for the extra point after touchdown but in both cases the boot was wide to the right.

The exceptional aggressiveness and hustle of the Bobcat defense stood out time and again as the 'Headhunters' turned back several Prescott penetrations.

The extremely well balanced backfield of the Curly Wolves was continually stifled by the alart but frenzied defensive play of the Cats.

Bobcat end Lutner Shaw's conversion attempt failed and the Cats led 6-0, with over 10 minutes left to play in the first half.

Prescott took the kickoff and started from scrimmage at thier own 31 yard line. From there the Wolves moved almost at will to within Hope's 35. But on the next play the Cats192 pound tackle, Gary Golden, burst through the middle to throw the Prescott, quarterback for a 10 yard loss as well as recover the loose ball which was bobbled sometime during the rush.

Four plays later the Cats were again faced with a punting situation near midfield. But this time Easterling bobbled the wobbly snap from center under a swarm of Curly rushers.

By the time the ball quit rolling and a Prescott player could fall on it, the Wolves had it on the Hope 25 with a first in 10.

Eight plays later fullback David Fry tought his way to pay dirt from the 2 to tie the score at 6 all with 1:54 remaining before half. Pry's PAT attempt was a little wide and the half ended in a 6-all tie.

The Curly Wolves began a drive with just over four minutes left in the third quarter which carried down to the Bobcat 39 before the Hope defense again rose to swipe a Prescott fumble. This time it was the Cats scrappy little linebacker, Mike Dillard, who was on top of the ball.

Again the Cats ran out of downs and called on Easterling to put the ball on the other end of the field. This the senior fullback did, launching a beautiful 41 yard spiral to the Prescott 14, but it was taken by speedster Bob Rouse who was off like a bolt down the sidelines toward the other goal. By midfield he was all alone except for a couple of blockers and a single Bobcat lineman making chase. The lineman, 187 pound junior guard John Henley, met Rouse coming across the field but had to reach over one blocker to pull him down at the Hope 32.

In his difficulty, Henley was unable to chose just where he grabbed the runner and unavoidably the Cats drew a 15 yard penalty for grabbing the face mask.

The Wolves were then working off a first down at the 17. But at this point the Hope defense stiffened again and Prescott ran out of downs at the 11 yard line.

The final quarter began with Hope in possession and their backs to the wall at the 13. In third down and long yardage the Cats went into punt formation and this time Easterling cocked his arm and threw a pass to Mr. Parris on a down and out pattern to the left. But the play didn't cover the necessary yardage and on the next play they did punt.

But they regained possession shortly on a Prescott punt and started from scrimmage at their shortly on a Prescott punt and started from scrimmage at their own 45. Time was growing short as the Cats moved it across the midfield and by the time the drive had progressed to within the Prescott 40 there was only a minute showing on the clock. In three plays they brought it to the 28 but in so doing used all but 30 remaining seconds.

In those last seconds the Cats and all their supporters caught a fleeting glimpse ofvictory only to experience in the next instant the agony of having to settle for something less.
ways very similar to the Bobcat-Arkadelphia affair a week aog. In both contests the Bobcat defense was stout and able while the offense though it came in spurts often proved inconsistent.

In individual rushing Prescott Pry led both team with 64 yards on 14 carries. For Hope it was Turner who carried 14 times for 44 yards, Parris who was 10 for 27, Easterling 8-19 Andrews 7-10 and Jerry Don McWilliams 1-5.

THE GRIM TASK of facing Cassius Clay in a forthcoming title bout brings on a look of concentration by Karl Mildenberger of Germany.

Pat Smith's Outdoor Notebook

It has been awhile since Roy Rogers galloped into his final celluloid sunset, wheeled the great, golden gelding against purpled skies and gave it the old "hats off" to a million kids in a thousand Saturday matinees across the country.

That was the end of Roy Rogers: King of the Cowboys. But, by no means, was it the end of Rogers as a public figure. Today he is classified by most observers as being among the world's most expert big game hunters and trap and skeet shooters.

Rogers, a lifetime member of the Amateur Trapshooting Association and an annual combatant in the Grand American at Vandalia, Ohio (World Series of shotgun shooting), spends nearly all his time pursuing his relatively new occupation.

He has shot polar bear in the Arctic; lion, elephant and antelope in Africa; jaguar in South America, and everything in the United States. He is 54 and he says, "I've only begun. There are so many places yet to hunt across."

Next to hunting, trap shooting is his favorite pursuit. "I got into this sport quite a few years back when Clark Gable took me to a trap club in Los Angeles.

"Clark had recently been given a Winchester shotgun and was itching to try it out. Gable was an excellent shot and often hunted with Hemingway at Hemingway's ranch in Sun Valley, but when he got up there he couldn't do a thing with his new gun.

"He walked back from the field with his dark eyes darker than ever and said: 'Who would like to buy this gun—cheap?' I said that I would like to have the gun and in a matter of a minute the deal was closed.

"Gable then brought me out to the firing line, handed me my new gun and said: 'Go ahead champ.' I think he pronounced 'champ' with a 'u' in the middle.

"Well, the upshot of it was I busted 35 claybirds in a row and Gable didn't speak to me for the rest of the afternoon."

Rogers' eyes twinkled as of old when he recalled the Gable story, and you could almost see him up there on the big screen, leaning into the wind with his quiz-kid palamino pounding across the badlands in pursuit of some dirty-Dan in a black hat.

Roy Rogers

At the moment, Rogers is combining his talents as trap shooter and cowboy in a 10-town barnstorming tour. In each city Rogers gives trap-shooting exhibitions as director of the Winchester National Claybird Tournament.

"Yeah," he said, "I get the adults out to watch me shoot and the kids—well, the kids come because they heard so much about me from their parents."

Wild About Harry

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The stories from Harry Wismer's days with the New York Titans are endless.

One weekend, during the early years of the American Football League, Harry decided to capitalize on the World Series crowd in town.

He re-scheduled a Titan game against Boston for Saturday night at the Polo Grounds.

Naturally, the plan backfired. The stands were nearly empty as the teams lined up for the opening kickoff.

Captain Larry Grantham winced as he surveyed the "crowd." He turned to his teammates.

"Fellers," he said, "they're gonna do something new tonight. Instead of introducing the players to the fans, they're gonna introduce the fans to the players."

"Of course," replied Clare. "Why?"

"I want it for self defense," explained the customer rubbing his chin.

Dick Modzelewski

Between you'n me

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
Sports Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

HIRAM, Ohio—(NEA)—To get ready for his 14th season of professional football, Dick Modzelewski—more familiarly known as Little Mo—went to his farm outside Cleveland and pitched 2,300 bales of hay and dug 50 fence post holes.

Then he reported with the veterans for the training camp of the Cleveland Browns here in bucolic northern Ohio, sat down in a chair and promptly found out he couldn't get up. His back had gone out of whack.

Dick wasn't exactly moaning. He skipped the early muscle stretching that's such a pain to the older players. But he's already at his playing weight of 241 pounds, which comes as something of a shock because I've been nurtured to believe that Mo, with his broad shoulders that begin where his head leaves off, always weighed around 260.

"If I were a coach," he said, "I wouldn't take me—too small nowadays to be a defensive tackle. I guess when I came into the league with the Washington Redskins my first year I weighed 255, but by the time I got to New York in 1956, I was down.

"Listen, I'm Polack dumb. I figured out that the older you got, the less weight you should carry, or you'd lose your quickness."

When Mo came into professional football, he recalled, there were only a dozen guys in the entire National League who weighed over 250 pounds. Now you check the roster of the Los Angeles Rams and you find that their lightest defensive lineman teeters at 260.

Modzelewski bridges the entire era of the popularity rise of pro ball. And the salary spiral that finds obscure linemen checking in at $100,000.

"I didn't have no lawyer with me when I went to sign my first contract," he mused as he lounged in Brooks Hall on the Hiram campus where the Browns make their summer headquarters. "I brought along my father to check the contract. He couldn't read or write."

Mo, an All-American tackle at Maryland on the heels of his brother, Ed, who was an All-American fullback, was the number two draft choice of the Redskins.

"I looked at my father and asked should I sign. He says, 'How much?'

"I told him $4,500 a year. He said, 'Sign it. It's more than you'll make in the coal mines.' "

Mo was traded to the Pittsburgh Steelers and then to New York after Giant players in their game reports had mentioned him as the toughest lineman they faced.

"I made," he grinned, "their all-opponent team."

That's all he ever made, too, in his 13 full seasons as a pro. Little Mo played on six Eastern Conference champions with the Giants, but he was never voted to the Pro Bowl.

During his time, however, the great defensive platoon of the Giants created a whole new concept of football in the minds of fans. The defense became the glamor part. A lot of it was stimulated by a television show, The Violent World of Sam Huff, a Twentieth Century production, and Little Mo was a featured performer.

"They had me driving Sam up to the training camp," he recalled, "to start the show. Then he said, 'Take my bags, Mo.'

"And I said, ' Aw, #@%—*.'

"Only they yelled, 'Cut!'

"And they convinced me to carry them up. I had a cousin who lived in West Virginia, where Huff came from, and all the time they kidded him about me being Sam's valet. And I used to tell him that was a lot of bull.

"So this show comes out with me driving Sam around and carrying his bags."

But the years have been good to Mo. He and Ed own a big restaurant in Cleveland and a big farm. He has only a slight touch of gray around the temples. His back has bothered him since Swede Svare, his own Giant teammate, bumped him on a play in 1957, but hasn't interfered with his mobility, which is how Mo compensates for his relative lack of size.

When he came to Cleveland in 1964, the Browns promptly won their first title in six years, and a lot of the credit went to Mo for breeding a winning attitude. At the age of 35, he hasn't got far to go.

"This," he announced quietly, "will be my last year. Charley Conerly always told me to quit when it still hurts on Sunday afternoon after the Sunday before.

"Right now, I'm up to Saturday night."

Keeping Under Control

This is likely the kind of editorial that doesn't make much sense. But it is increasingly harder for virtually all of us to keep some senses of order in our thinking. Events which seem to go beyond any mortal's planning, the very confusion and multiplicity of things happening — these seem to lead us more and more either to irrational statements and thoughts, or toward a kind of desire for "no thought." That is a condition in which the brain, the consciousness, can be placed in cold storage.

Yet it remains the essential duty of all of us to remember Rudyard Kipling's "If." Now Mr. Kipling is not considered one of literature's more profound thinkers. But he did make a comment in a peom once about being a man "if" you could keep your head when, all about, others seemed to be losing theirs. There will be no current or doubtless early unanimity of thinking, though many thinking "this" will find agreement, and many thinking "that" will do so also.

We can be assured of this: That in time so much of what now is going on, or has gone on of late, will pass. Our times doubtless never will be the same as once they were — but, then, at no point in history were times ever what they had been previously. We have only the suggestion to one and all, that each man or woman endeavor to put his thoughts in what order he can, cling to some of the old truths, and understand as compassionately as is possible that life is change. Times ahead will bring even more transition.

It requires a kind of valor for the individual citizen, probably feeling very much alone and adrift in his thoughts, to restrain himself, his emotions, to continue to apply his brain when the brain itself cries for relief from still more duty. But we must try, each of us. That is all we can suggest. — The Birmingham (Ala.) News

Crim Comparisons

Sometimes it helps us to realize more fully the magnitude of a problem by use of comparisons. Crime is one of our most urgent problems in America today and here are a few comparisons that might help show just how bad the situation is.

Last year, enough people were violently attacked in the streets and in their homes to populate the entire city of Shreveport, La.

The number of people robbed equalled the entire adult population of a city the size of Bridgeport, Conn.

The number of women forcibly raped equalled the adult female population of a City like Fort Smith, Ark. And if all the murders had occurred in one place, a town bigger than Gettysburg, Pa., would be depopulated. — Savannah (Ga.) Morning News

Mills Delays Medicare Limit Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP)— Chairman Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., said Thursday his House Ways and Means Committee had put off deciding what recommendations would be made on limits of a new program for medical care for low-income families.

Mills announced that no verdict was reached after the committee's closed meeting. He did not indicate when the committee would meet again. The committee has spent several weeks trying to decide who to limit the scope of the plan.

The plan was enacted by Congress last year, but several states submitted proposed programs far more extensive than those contemplated when the law was passed.

New York, for instance, sought $217 million for a program that would pay hospital, dental and doctor bills of families of four with an income of $6,000 a year or less after medical insurance and deductions.

The Department of Welfare previously had estimated that the program for the whole nation would amount to $238 million the first year, but New York's proposal made lawmakers decide to cut the extent of the program.

Inflation in Canada Delays Medicare

OTTAWA (AP) — Inflation is forcing the Canadian government to postpone the start of a federal medicare program, defer student scholarships and seek higher taxes, Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp told the House of Commons Thursday.

The estimated budget deficit for the fiscal year has doubled — to $300 million — since March, Sharp said in a long anti-inflation speech.

"Higher taxes are cold comfort to those troubled by higher prices," he added. "But they can help prevent prices from going higher."

The nature of the tax proposals will be discussed next month, Sharp said.

Astronauts Are Noted for Talking

By RONALD THOMPSON
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP)—Charles Conard Jr. and Richard F. Gordon Jr. talk a lot; so much, in fact, as to challenge ground controllers to squeeze a word in edgewise as the two whip through space in Gemini 11.

"You know I've never been quiet," said Navy Cmdr. Conrad. "And, neither has Dick."

Conrad, "Pete" to all who know him, proved this during his eight-day Gemini 5 trip with Air Force Col. L. Gordon Cooper Jr. last year. He unofficially became the poet laureate of space, with the ditties he composed — and even sang.

They could prove to be the most talkative astronaut team, following probably the most laconic. Gemini 10 pilots John W. Young and Michael Collins had to be coaxed into chit-chat during parts of their 44-orbit journey in July.

Gemini 11 was set to begin its three-day trip from Cape Kennedy, Fla., today.

Not only do Conrad and Gordon possess similarly effervescent personalities, they have many other things in common that make them a natural team to man a cramped spaceship:

—Both are dyed-in-the-wool Navy men, making the first all-Navy Gemini crew. Conrad has a big tattoo of an anchor, stars and initials of the U.S. Navy on his upper left arm.

—Both have large families. Gordon is the father of six children, including four boys; Conrad has four sons.

—Each is 36. Conrad turned 36 on June 2, Gordon will be 37 Oct. 5.

—Both originally applied for the astronaut program at the same time, while members of the same naval fighter squadron. Conrad was elected to the space corps a year before Gordon, in 1962.

Gordon laughingly puts it this way("We have pretty much the same personality. He can tell me to go to hell, just as I can tell him to go to hell."

Foreign Aid Bill Not Out of Woods Yet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's foreign aid program is over the hill for this year—but not out of the woods.

After weeks of debate and fussing, a compromise $3.5-billion aid authorization was on its way to the White House today.

But the measure, which previously had been approved by the House, cleared the Senate Wednesday by only eight votes — 33 to 25. Sen. J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee which handled the measure, wasn't even there to vote either aye or nay.

But before the Senate gave its approval, one foreign aid critic, Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., was urging that the appropriation measure providing the funds be slashed down. The appropriation follows the authorization bill, which sets ceilings and restrictions on the program, and may set off a new round of debate.

The measure as finally approved was a compromise worked out by a conference committee that reconciled dozens of differences between the Senate and House versions of the program.

Originally, the President had asked for $3,367,000,000 for the aid program—both military and economic. The House had authorized $4,109,119,000. But the Senate, in an obviously rebellious mood, chopped the request to $2,852,762,000.

In the Senate-House negotiations the administration ended up with $3,500,735,500—a figure that could be reduced when the appropriation bill starts through the mill.

Gemini 11 Mission Is Delayed Again

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Gemini 11 rendezvous and spacewalk mission was postponed again today, this time because of problems with an automatic pilot system in Gemini 11's Atlas-Agena target rocket.

A new attempt will be made Monday morning.

The launching was called off at 8:16 a.m. as the astronauts, Navy Cmdr. Charles Conrad Jr. and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Richard F. Gordon Jr. werein their ready room quarters about 1,200 feet from their launch pad.

They had been on the verge of entering their spacecraft just an hour before when the trouble developed in the Atlas booster rockee on launch pad 14, some 6,000 feet away from the Gemini launch pad.

They took the elevator down to the ground level and returned to their quarters in a white van while engineers wrestled with the problem in the Atlas autopilot.

As they walked to the truck carrying them to the suit-up trailer, both astronauts had wry grins.

"Tomorrow! Conrad, normally a chatty man, said.

Gordon, right behind him, commented: "Well, we got a little farther today." This was an obvious reference to Friday when they were still asleep when trouble developed, forcing a 24-hour delay.

It was the second straight day the astronauts had been stymied in their effort to take off on an intended three-day space adventure, during which they were to attempt man's fastest rendezvous and link-up with an Agena satellite.

Friday Music Club to Open Fall Season With Concert Time on KXAR

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

What started as a folk singing group has turned into one of the largest teen-age missionary teams in the history of the Episcopal Church with a profound witness for Christ in song, drama, teaching, construction, and direct physical rescue.

The group is called "The Retreat Singers" and the name is taken from its origin on weekend retreats into the mountains of Arkansas. The 26 guitar-toting teen-agers are a part of the Young Churchmen of Trinity Episcopal Cathedral, Little Rock, and they began working together under the direction of the Rev. Edgar E. Shippey, Assistant to the Dean of the Cathedral.

In September of last year the Rev. Shippey had an idea, and by this June it had developed into a "going concern" when the Singers boarded a second-hand bus, the "Holy Roller," to sing their way to Canada.

Many of their songs had never been used with Christian worship before. Some were original creations of the group, some were traditional hymn tunes with new lyrics, and one has a melody associated with the Apostolic Church for over 1400 years. They have taken hit tunes of the day, enveloped them with the spirit of the gospel, and converted them into Christ - centered ballads.

The Singers are not merely attempting to present the events in our Lord's life, but the Spirit — the attitudes and moods involved in the Christ event. As an example, they occasionally sing Hebrew folk songs untranslated in order to express the musical mood in the ancient language of the people of Israel who surrounded the environment of the Messiah.

The work of these teen-agers has produced some astonishing results. They seem to have been carrying on an unusual kind of communion with the personality of Christ with the acquisition of the Spirit in much the same subconscious manner that one might take on a southern accent by surrounding oneself with southerners.

Members of the group have a tremendous amount of talent. Major solos are sung by a young lady without any professional training, and much of the song writing and musical arrangement is the work of a 17 year old boy who first picked up a guitar about two years ago. When readings are given by the group, they are often by a 15 year old girl with a professional - sounding skill or by a boy who sounds like a network disc jockey. Both are, in reality, untrained.

This versatile group of enthusiastic teen-agers has done singing, recording, and has worked on TV. In addition, "The Retreat Singers" have turned into a construction crew. They are building their own cabin for retreats and have already finished building a road to the cabin site through more than a mile of virgin timber. They are also taking a 16 - hour emergency rescue course from the Red Cross plus midwife training from a medical doctor and even training in firearms from the Arkansas State Police.
